

Miscellaneous Professional Liability Insurance

Think your customers would never sue you?
Are you sure?

CHUBB®

If your company provides services to others and doesn't meet their expectations, it may be held accountable for its actions. Does your company's promotional material detail specific services? Does your company sign service contracts in which it accepts the liability of your clients arising out of your work? If yes, your company may have an exposure to an errors and omissions lawsuit.

That's why Chubb created ForeFront Portfolio Miscellaneous Professional Liability Insurance specifically for private companies like yours.

Why your company needs miscellaneous professional liability insurance:

- Your clients may require you to carry professional liability insurance. This coverage is increasingly becoming a common requirement.
- Your company may sign contracts in which it accepts the liability of your clients if such liability arises out of your actions.
- A lawsuit can be brought by any third party who is impacted by your service—not just your immediate client—so the broader the exposure, the greater the need for insurance protection.
- Having coverage can actually be a marketing tool when your company is competing against other firms to win a service contract.

ForeFront Portfolio

- Meritless lawsuits must still be defended... and expenses typically comprise most of the costs associated with professional liability lawsuits.

ForeFront Portfolio Employment Practices Liability Insurance

Responds to allegations including:

- Error in performance of service.
- Negligent acts or advice.
- Failure to perform a service.
- Failure of a third party, for whom your company is
- legally responsible, to perform professional services.
