

I am a senior
underwriting assistant.
I am Foong Chun.

Producing excellent work to provide the best service to both internal and external stakeholders is not the only trait required of a craftsman. I believe that the ability to manage relationships is just as important.

Motivating my team to work to the best of their abilities and achieve their maximum potential are my visions for the team. I am a team player in the execution of my duties and am committed to assist the team to deliver superior service to our clients.
